Introduction

GENERAL

This report presents 1980 population and land area data and detailed maps for the 366 urbanized areas (UA's) in the United States and the 7 UA's in Puerto Rico recognized by the Bureau of the Census for the 1980 census. In addition, 1970 population counts are shown for the combined group of 275 UA's in the United States—the 248 UA's delineated for the 1970 census and the 27 additional UA's that were delineated in 1974 on the basis of 1970 counts applied to revised criteria.

Tables 1, 3, 4, 5, and parts of table 2 were published previously in 1980 Census of Population, Characteristics of the Population, Number of Inhabitants, United States Summary, PC80-1-A1, Part 1. Table 7 and the maps were published previously in Parts 2 through 53 of the PC80-1-A report for each State and Puerto Rico. Tables 1a and 6 are new tables prepared for this report.

DESCRIPTION OF TABLES

Table 1 lists the 1980 populations, land areas, and population densities of the 366 UA's in the United States and their central cities. In 1980, 139.2 million persons, or 61 percent of the total U.S. population, lived within the boundaries of urbanized areas as defined for the 1980 census. These areas covered only 52,017 square miles, however, or 1.5 percent of the total land area of the United States.

Less than half (48 percent, or 67.0 million inhabitants) of the UA population lived in the 431 central cities, whereas 72.1 million persons were in the urban fringe—the remainder of the UA's outside the central cities. The proportion of the population of UA's living in the central city or cities, however, varied greatly among the areas, ranging from a low of 13 percent for the West Palm Beach, Fla. UA to a high of 100 percent for five UA's (Amarillo, Tex.; Anchorage, Alaska; Galveston, Tex.; Lexington-Fayette, Ky.; and Meriden, Conn.). Nineteen UA's had less than 25 percent of their inhabitants living in central cities, and of these, six had less than 20 percent of their populations in central cities.

The mean population density of all UA's combined was 2,675 persons per square mile of land area, with a mean density of 3,551 persons per square mile in the central cities and 2,177 in the urban fringe. By contrast, the density was 25 persons per square mile outside UA's and 64 for the United States as a whole in 1980.

The density in the central cities varied from 775 for the Auburn-Opelika, Ala. UA to an average of 22,491 for the three central cities in the New York, N.Y.—Northeastern New Jersey UA. While the usual pattern is for the density of the central city(ies) to exceed that of the urban fringe, in 31 areas the pattern was reversed—the density of the urban fringe exceeded that of the central city or cities. The low densities in the urban fringe areas of some UA's are attributable, in large part, to the inclusion in the UA's of land devoted to urban uses other than residential use, such as industrial parks, office areas, airports, golf courses, and cemeteries, and the inclusion of low-density territory between the main core of a UA and its outlying urban development.

As table 1a indicates, 54 percent of the population of Puerto Rico, amounting to 1.7 million persons, resided in its seven UA's in 1980. Although these areas covered only one-tenth of the total land area of Puerto Rico, this level was appreciably higher than the 1.5 percent recorded for the United States. In size, the UA's ranged from a population of 59,574 for the Aguadilla UA to 1,081,193 for the San Juan area.

The mean population density of all UA's in Puerto Rico combined was 4,927 persons per square mile of land area. The average density of the central cities (8,378 persons per square mile) was more than double that of the urban fringe areas (3,482).

There was considerable variation among individual UA's in the United States in terms of population, land area, and density, as evidenced by the rankings in table 2. Populations ranged in size from just over 50,000 for the Jackson, Tenn. UA to more than 15 million for the New York, N.Y.—Northeastern New Jersey UA, with the median population for all UA's being 112,354. The 29 UA's with more than 1 million inhabitants had a combined population of 80,088,652, or 58 percent of the total population of the 366 areas. On the other hand, the 3,377,280 persons living in the 62 UA's of under 60,000 inhabitants represented only 2.4 percent of the total population in UA's.

Land areas of individual UA's ranged from 14 square miles for the State College, Pa. UA to the New York area's 2,808 square miles, and densities varied from a low of 683 persons in the Vineland-Millville, N.J. UA to a figure over eight times as high in the New York area—5,552. Ten UA's had densities in excess of 4,000 and ten UA's had densities of less than 1,000. The median land area and density were 63 square miles and 2,095 persons per square mile, respectively. As can be seen in table 2, most of the 93¹ UA's designated on the basis of the 1980 census criteria (denoted by the symbol "#") fell in the 4th and 5th quintiles, or lower 40 percent, of the distributions for all three characteristics.

Table 3 presents the population of the United States and its distribution by size of place using the 1980 census UA criteria for the 1980 population and the 1974

¹The net increase was 91 as four 1970 UA's (Dallas, Tex., and Fort Worth, Tex.; Scranton, Pa., and Wilkes-Barre, Pa.) merged into two. Of the 93, three had been part of other UA's in 1970 (Elgin, Ill.; Elkhart-Goshen, Ind.; and Middletown, Ohio).

UA criteria for the 1970 population. The total population residing inside UA's rose from 120,724,546 in 1970 to 139,170,683 in 1980, an addition of 18,446,137. Nearly one-third of this increase—5,832,564—was accounted for by the population of the 93 UA's newly designated on the basis of the 1980 census UA criteria; the effect of the revision in the UA criteria may be seen in the fact that 60 of the newly designated UA's, constituting 3,549,433 persons or almost one-fifth of the total population increase in urbanized areas, would not have qualified according to the 1974 UA criteria.

Table 4 provides data on the composition of the 1980 urban population of the United States by regions, divisions, and States. The 1980 urban population consisted of the following: (a) the 139,170,683 inhabitants of the 366 urbanized areas; (b) the 24,736,095 residents of the 3,206 incorporated places of 2,500 or more outside urbanized areas; and (c) the 3,144,214 persons living in the 621 census designated places of 2,500 or more outside urbanized areas. More than four-fifths (83 percent) of the urban population, and over three-fifths (61 percent) of the total U.S. population, were residents of urbanized areas.

The South contained the largest population inside urbanized areas (39.7 million), followed by the Northeast (35.4 million), the North Central (33.0 million), and the West (31.1 million). For the proportion of its total population living in UA's, however, the Northeast and West had the highest proportion (72 percent each), followed by the North Central (56 percent) and South (53 percent).

After the District of Columbia, which was completely urbanized in 1980, New Jersey led the States in the proportion of its total population living in urbanized areas—85 percent. There were five other States—California, Florida, Massachusetts, New York, and Rhode Island—in which this proportion exceeded 75 percent. At the lower end of the distribution, Vermont had only 15 percent of its residents living in urbanized areas. For an additional six States—Arkansas, Idaho, Maine, Mississippi, South Dakota, and West Virginia—the proportion urbanized was less than 25 percent.

Table 5 depicts the population relationships between UA's and SMSA's in 1980. UA's are smaller in area than SMSA's and in most cases contained within them. The fact that the boundaries of SMSA's are determined by county lines (cities and towns in New England) and the boundaries of UA's by the pattern of urban land use means that there may be small segments of UA's that lie outside SMSA's. In general, however, UA's represent the thickly settled core of the SMSA's. In 1980, 21 UA's were not located in any SMSA.

The proportion of the UA population living outside SMSA's in 1980 was considerably smaller than the proportion of the SMSA population outside UA's. About 1.2 percent of the population of UA's resided in areas outside SMSA's, compared with 18.9 percent of the population of SMSA's that was outside UA's. This situation reflects the existence of considerable rural territory in metropolitan areas, particularly outside the Northeast, and, to a lesser extent, places of 2,500 or more that are located beyond the boundaries of urbanized areas. (See the section on "Relationship Between UA's and SMSA's" under "Area Classifications" for further discussion.)

Table 6 gives the population and land area for the urban and rural portions of extended cities. There were 87 such cities identified within urbanized areas in 1980. These cities had a total population of nearly 7.8 million and included more than 9,440 square miles. The urban portions accounted for approximately 98 percent of the total population of extended cities but only 42 percent of their land area. The population of the rural portions was 161,140. The mean population densities of the urban and rural portions of these cities were 1,921 persons and 29 persons per square mile, respectively. Twenty-six of the extended cities, with a combined total population of 6.0 million and rural population of 90,323, were central cities of urbanized areas.

There is a table 7, which presents data for the component parts of the individual UA's, and an accompanying set of detailed UA outline maps for each State and Puerto Rico. The map section includes a map for each UA in the State and Puerto Rico—several large UA's have multi-page maps—that shows the names and boundaries of all States (or Puerto Rico), counties (municipios), county subdivisions (municipio subdivisions), and places in the UA, as well as the extent of territory defined as "urbanized." All the maps are at the same scale: 1:250,000 or 1" = about 4 miles. For both the tables and maps, a multi-State UA is shown in its entirety in each State in which it is located.

SYMBOLS AND GEOGRAPHIC ABBREVIATIONS

The following symbols and geographic abbreviations are used in the tables:

- A dash "—" represents zero or a percent that rounds to less than 0.1.
- Three dots "... " mean not applicable.
- (NA) means not available.
- A minus sign preceding a figure denotes decrease.
- The prefix "r" indicates that the count has been revised since publication of 1970 census reports, or that the area was erroneously omitted in 1970, or that the area was not shown in the correct geographic relationship in the 1970 census reports.
- The "#" symbol in table 2 indicates an urbanized area newly defined for the 1980 census.
- An asterisk "*" in table 6 denotes a central city of an urbanized area.
- CDP is census designated place.
- UA is urbanized area.
- SMSA is standard metropolitan statistical area.
- (unorg.) is unorganized territory.

REGIONS

Regions are large groups of States that form the first-order subdivisions of the United States for census purposes. The four regions are the Northeast, North Central, South, and West. The divisions and States included in each region are shown in table 4.

DIVISIONS

Divisions are groups of States which are subdivisions of the four regions. There are nine geographic divisions. The States included in each division are shown in table 4.

STATES

The 50 States and the District of Columbia are the constituent units of the United States.

COUNTIES

In most States, the primary divisions are termed counties. In Louisiana, these divisions are known as parishes. In Alaska, which has no counties, the county equivalents are the organized boroughs together with the "census areas" that were developed for general statistical purposes by the State of Alaska and the Census Bureau. In four States (Maryland, Missouri, Nevada, and Virginia), there are one or more cities that are independent of any county organization and thus constitute primary divisions of their States. That part of Yellowstone National Park in Montana is treated as a county equivalent. The District of Columbia has no primary divisions, and the entire area is considered equivalent to a county for census purposes.

COUNTY SUBDIVISIONS

Subdivisions of counties or equivalent areas are as follows:

- 1. Minor civil divisions (MCD's) in 29 States: Arkansas, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South

Dakota, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wisconsin. (In 1970, the county subdivisions recognized for North Dakota were census county divisions.)

MCD's are primary divisions of counties established under State law. These MCD's are variously designated as townships, towns, precincts, districts, wards, plantations, Indian reservations, grants, purchases, gores, or locations. In some States, all incorporated places are also MCD's in their own right. In other States, incorporated places are subordinate to or part of the MCD(s) in which they are located, or the pattern is mixed—some incorporated places are independent MCD's and others are subordinate to one or more MCD's.

In 8 States (Arkansas, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Minnesota, North Carolina, North Dakota, and South Dakota), certain counties contain territory not included in an MCD recognized by the Census Bureau. Each separate area of unorganized territory in these States is recognized as one or more subdivisions and given a name by the Bureau; the name is followed by the designation "(unorg.)."

- 2. Census county divisions (CCD's) in 20 States: Alabama, Arizona, California, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Kentucky, Montana, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming.
- CCD's are geographic areas that have been defined by the Census Bureau in cooperation with State and county officials for the purpose of presenting statistical data. CCD's have been defined in States where there are no legally established MCD's, where the boundaries of MCD's change frequently, and/or where the MCD's are not generally known to the public.

Using published guidelines, the CCD's have usually been designed to represent community areas focused on trading centers or to represent major land use areas, and to have visible, permanent, and easily described boundaries.

3. Census subareas in Alaska. For the 1980 census, census subareas have been delineated cooperatively by the Census Bureau and the State of Alaska for statistical purposes. These areas replace the subdivisions used for the 1970 census.
4. Quadrants in the District of Columbia.

PLACES

Two types of places are recognized in the census reports—incorporated places and census designated places—as defined below.

Incorporated Places

Incorporated places recognized in the reports of the census are those that are incorporated under the laws of their respective States as cities, boroughs, towns, and villages, with the following exceptions: boroughs in Alaska and New York, and towns in the six New England States, New York, and Wisconsin. The towns in the New England States, New York, and Wisconsin, and the boroughs in New York are also recognized as minor civil divisions (MCD's) for census purposes. The boroughs in Alaska are county equivalents.

Some incorporated places include narrow strips of land (frequently only the rights-of-way of streets) that typically have no population or housing units. These areas, termed "corporate corridors," are generally not shown on the maps or in the tables of 1980 census reports. The existence of these areas is indicated in the footnotes to table 4 in the PC80-1-A report for each State and Puerto Rico.

In Connecticut, a unique situation exists in which one incorporated place (Woodmont borough) is subordinate to another (Milford city). The city of Milford is coextensive with the town of Milford. In the tables for the reports in this series and other series of 1980 census reports, data shown for Milford city exclude those for Woodmont borough, and the user must therefore refer to data for Milford town (which include those for the borough) for data for Milford city.

Census Designated Places

As in the 1950, 1960, and 1970 censuses, the Census Bureau has delineated boundaries for closely settled population centers without corporate limits. In 1980, the name of each such place is followed by "(CDP)," meaning "census designated place." In the 1970 and earlier censuses, these places were identified by "(U)," meaning "unincorporated place." To be recognized for the 1980 census, CDP's must have a minimum 1980 population as follows:

Area	Minimum CDP population
Alaska	25
Hawaii	300
All other States:
Inside urbanized areas:
1) With one or more cities of 50,000 or more	5,000
2) With no city of 50,000 or more	1,000
Outside urbanized areas	1,000

Hawaii is the only State with no incorporated places recognized by the Bureau of the Census. All places shown for Hawaii in the 1980 census reports are CDP's. Honolulu CDP essentially represents the Honolulu Judicial District. The city of Honolulu, coextensive with the county of Honolulu, is not recognized for census purposes.

Census designated place boundaries change with changes in the settlement pattern; a place that has the same name as in previous censuses does not necessarily have the same boundaries.

URBAN AND RURAL RESIDENCE

Definition

As defined for the 1980 census, the urban population comprises all persons living in urbanized areas (UA's) and in places of 2,500 or more inhabitants outside UA's. More specifically, the urban population consists of all persons living in (1) places of 2,500 or more inhabitants incorporated as cities, villages, boroughs (except in Alaska and New York), and towns (except in the New England States, New York, and Wisconsin), but excluding those persons living in the rural portions of extended cities; (2) census designated places of 2,500 or more inhabitants; and (3) other territory, incorporated or unincorporated, included in UA's. The population not classified as urban constitutes the rural population.

To improve its measure of the urban population, the Bureau of the Census in 1950 adopted the concept of the urbanized area and delineated boundaries for unincorporated places. For the 1950 census, the urban population was defined as all persons residing in UA's and, outside these areas, in all places, incorporated or unincorporated, which had 2,500 or more inhabitants. With the following three exceptions, the 1950 definition of urban has continued substantially unchanged. First, in 1960 (but not in 1970 or 1980), certain towns in the New England States, townships in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and Arlington County, Va., were designated as urban. However, most of the residents of these "special rule" areas would have been classified as urban in any event because they were residents of an urbanized area or an unincorporated place of 2,500 or more. Second, "extended cities" were identified in 1970 and 1980. Their recognition has, in general, had very little impact on the urban and rural population figures. Third, changes since 1970 in the criteria for defining UA's have permitted such areas to be defined around smaller centers.

Extended Cities

Since 1960 there has been an increasing trend toward the extension of city boundaries to include territory essentially rural in character. The classification of all the inhabitants of such cities as urban would include in the urban population persons whose environment is primarily rural in character. For the 1970 and 1980 censuses, in order to separate these people from those residing in the closely settled portions of such cities, the Bureau of the Census classified as rural a portion or portions of each such city that was located in a UA. To be treated as an extended city, a city must contain one or more areas that are each at least 5 square miles in extent and have a population density of less than 100 persons per square mile. The area or areas must constitute at least 25 percent of the land area of the legal city or include at least 25 square miles. These areas are excluded from the UA.

Those cities designated as extended cities thus consist of an urban part and a rural part. Only the urban part is considered to be the central city of a UA. However, the term "central city" as used for SMSA's refers to the entire population within the legal boundaries of the city.

URBANIZED AREAS

Definition

The major objective of the Census Bureau in delineating UA's is to provide a better separation of urban and rural population and housing in the vicinity of large cities. A UA consists of a central city or cities and surrounding closely settled territory or "urban fringe." A map of each UA in a given State or Puerto Rico appears after table 7 for the State or Puerto Rico.

There are 366 UA's delineated in the United States and 7 UA's delineated in Puerto Rico for the 1980 census.

The following criteria¹ are used in determining the eligibility and definition of the 1980 UA's.²

A UA comprises an incorporated place³ and adjacent densely settled surrounding area that together have a minimum population of 50,000.⁴ The densely settled surrounding area consists of:

1. Contiguous incorporated places or census designated places having:

- a. A population of 2,500 or more; or,
- b. A population of fewer than 2,500 but having either a population density of 1,000 persons per square mile, closely settled area containing a minimum of 50 percent of the population, or a cluster of at least 100 housing units.

2. Contiguous unincorporated area which is connected by road and has a population density of at least 1,000 persons per square mile.⁵

3. Other contiguous unincorporated area with a density of less than 1,000 persons per square mile, provided that it:

- a. Eliminates an enclave of less than 5 square miles which is surrounded by built-up area.
- b. Closes an indentation in the boundary of the densely settled area that is no more than 1 mile across the open end and encompasses no more than 5 square miles.
- c. Links an outlying area of qualifying density, provided that the outlying area is:

- (1) Connected by road to, and is not more than 1½ miles from, the main body of the UA.
- (2) Separated from the main body of the UA by water or other undevelopable area, is connected by road to the main body of the UA, and is not more than 5 miles from the main body of the UA.

4. Large concentrations of nonresidential urban area (such as industrial parks, office areas, and major airports), which have at least one-quarter of their boundary contiguous to a UA.

2. The titles of new UA's qualifying as the result of the 1980 census are determined as follows:

- a. The name of the incorporated place with the largest population in the UA is always listed.
- b. The names of up to two additional incorporated places may be listed, with eligibility determined as follows:

- (1) Those with a population of at least 250,000.

- (2) Those with a population of 15,000 to 250,000, provided that they are at least one-third the population of the largest place in the UA.

3. Area titles that include the names of more than one incorporated place start with the name of the largest and list the others in descending order of their population.

4. In addition to incorporated place names, the titles contain the name of each State into which the UA extends.

5. Regional titles may be used to identify UA's with populations over 1 million, in which case only the largest city of the UA is included in the title.

UA Central Cities

The central cities of UA's are those named in the titles except where regional titles are used. In such cases, the central cities are those that have qualified under items 1 or 2 of the titling criteria.

Counts and data for central cities of UA's refer to the urban portion of these cities, thus excluding the rural portions of extended cities, as discussed above.

UA Titles

1. The titles of UA's existing prior to the 1980 Census of Population and Housing are retained unchanged except for mergers and for those areas meeting items 4 and/or 5 of the titling criteria.

⁵Any area of extensive nonresidential urban land use, such as railroad yards, airports, factories, parks, golf courses, and cemeteries, is excluded in computing the population density.

¹For further information, see the Federal Register, Vol. 45, No. 59, March 25, 1980, "Explanation of Revisions to the Urbanized Area Criteria for the 1980 Census."

²All references to population counts and densities relate to data from the 1980 census.

³In Hawaii, incorporated places do not exist in the sense of functioning local governmental units. Instead, census designated places are used in defining a central city and for applying UA criteria.

⁴The rural portions of extended cities, as defined in the Census Bureau's extended city criteria, are excluded from the UA. In addition, for a UA to be recognized, it must include a population of at least 25,000 that does not reside on a military base.

STANDARD METROPOLITAN STATISTICAL AREAS

Definition

The general concept of a metropolitan area is one of a large population nucleus, together with adjacent communities which have a high degree of economic and social integration with that nucleus. The standard metropolitan statistical area (SMSA) classification is a statistical standard, developed for use by Federal agencies in the production, analysis, and publication of data on metropolitan areas. The SMSA's are designated and defined by the Office of Management and Budget, following a set of official published standards developed by the inter-agency Federal Committee on Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas.

Each SMSA has one or more central counties containing the area's main population concentration: a UA with at least 50,000 inhabitants. An SMSA may also include outlying counties which have close economic and social relationships with the central counties. The outlying counties must have a specified level of commuting to the central counties and must also meet certain standards regarding metropolitan character, such as population density, urban population, and population growth. In New England, SMSA's are composed of cities and towns rather than whole counties.

There are 318 SMSA's designated in the United States for the 1980 census. There are five SMSA's designated in Puerto Rico which are shown in the census reports for Puerto Rico.

The population living in SMSA's may also be referred to as the metropolitan population. The population is subdivided into "inside central city (or cities)" and "outside central city (or cities)." The population living outside SMSA's constitutes the nonmetropolitan population.

SMSA Titles

Most SMSA's have at least one central city. The titles of SMSA's include up to three city names, as well as the names of each State into which the SMSA extends. For the 1980 census, central cities of SMSA's are those named in the titles of the SMSA's, with the exception of Nassau-Suffolk, N.Y., which has no central city, and Northeast Pennsylvania, the central cities of which are Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, and Hazleton. Data on central cities of SMSA's include the entire population within the legal city boundaries. In Hawaii, where there are no incorporated places recognized by the Bureau of the Census, census designated places are recognized as central cities.

New SMSA Standards

New standards for designating and defining metropolitan statistical areas were published in the Federal Register on January 3, 1980. The SMSA's recognized for the 1980 census comprise (1) all areas as defined on January 1, 1980, except for one area which was defined provisionally during the 1970's on the basis of population estimates but whose qualification was not confirmed by 1980 census counts; and (2) a group of 36 new areas defined on the basis of 1980 census counts and the new standards that were published on January 3, 1980.

The new standards will not be applied to the areas existing on January 1, 1980, until after data on commuting flows become available from 1980 census tabulations. At that time, the boundaries, definitions, and titles for all SMSA's will be reviewed.

To aid users who want to become familiar with the standards for SMSA's—known since June 30, 1983, as metropolitan statistical areas—and how they are applied, documents are available from the Office of Management and Budget, Washington, D.C. 20503.

RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN UA'S AND SMSA'S

Although the UA and the SMSA are closely related in concept, there are important differences. The UA consists of the contiguous built-up territory around each larger city and thus corresponds generally to the core of the SMSA. The SMSA definitions use counties as building blocks (in New England, cities and towns are used). SMSA's are generally larger than their core UA because they include discontinuous urban and suburban development beyond the periphery of the continuously built-up territory. SMSA's may also include rural territory, while UA's do not.

The new SMSA standards provide that each SMSA must include a UA. SMSA's with separate large urban concentrations may include two or more UA's. Occasionally, a portion of a UA extends across the SMSA boundary into a non-metropolitan county or another SMSA. Such portions are usually quite small in area and population. While each SMSA must include a UA, UA's may be defined outside the boundaries of any SMSA.

BOUNDARY CHANGES

The boundaries of some of the areas shown in this report have changed between January 1, 1970, and January 1, 1980. The 1970 counts shown here for county subdivisions, places, and UA's have not been adjusted for such changes and thus reflect the population in the areas as defined at each census. Thus, in table 7, the 1970 population figures for the components of some UA's may not add to the UA or county totals because of changes in the boundaries of county subdivisions since 1970. Information on boundary changes for county subdivisions and incorporated places is presented in table 4 of the PC80-1-A report for each State and Puerto Rico.

AREA MEASUREMENTS

Land area data for incorporated places were obtained from local officials. If there was no acceptable local response, the area was measured by planimeter by the Bureau using census maps, and the data adjudicated as necessary. The land areas of CDP's, which have no local officials, also were measured by planimeter using census maps.

In order to delineate UA's, planimetric measurements were made of the urban fringe to permit calculation of small-area population densities used to determine the final UA boundary. After delineation of the 1980 UA boundary, the total area of each UA was measured by planimeter. As part of this process, county figures were calculated within each UA, as well as the urban and rural portions of extended cities and the UA portion of MCD's within 11 selected States. Water area was deleted by planimetric measurement. Figures for individual areas may not add to totals because of rounding.

POPULATION DENSITY

Density is a summary measure of the areal distribution of a population. Population density is computed by dividing the total population of a geographic unit (U.S., place, UA) by its land area measured in square miles or square kilometers. Densities are expressed as both "persons per square mile" and "persons per square kilometer" of land area in the tables of this report.

HISTORIC COUNTS

As in past censuses, the general rule for presenting historic figures for States, counties, county subdivisions, places, and UA's is to present counts only for single, continually existing entities. Stated another way, if an area existed at both the current and previous censuses, a count is shown for the previous census. Included in this category are areas which are of the same type (county, county subdivision, place, or UA) which have retained the same name or have changed their name.

In cases where entities have been formed since the 1970 census, such as a newly incorporated place, a newly organized township, or a newly defined UA, the symbol three dots "... " is shown for the 1970 census. The three-dot symbol is also shown for those parts of a place which have extended into a new county or county subdivision through annexation or other expansion of boundaries.

In a few cases, changes in the boundaries of county subdivisions have been made so as to split a place into two or more parts. Historic counts for the parts of the place as currently split may not always be available. In these cases, "(NA)" is shown for the place by county subdivision; however, the total population of the place is shown in tables showing the place by State or county.

For most places incorporated since 1970, or for census county divisions with altered boundaries, 1970 population counts for the 1980 territory are stated in the footnotes to table 4 in the PC80-1-A report for each State and Puerto Rico.

In table 3 of this report, 1970 counts are shown for aggregations of individual areas such as the number and population of places by size groups or urban and rural distributions. In some instances, population counts for individual areas have been revised since publication of the 1970 census reports (indicated by the prefix "r" as described in the section "Symbols and Geographic Abbreviations" in the Introduction). These revisions have not been carried through to the various aggregations; therefore, it may not be possible to determine the individual areas in a given aggregation using the 1970 population counts shown here.

In table 3 of this report, data for 1970 reflect the number and population of UA's as defined in 1974.

PUERTO RICO

The 78 municipios are the constituent units of Puerto Rico.

Municipios

In Puerto Rico the primary divisions are termed municipios. Each municipio has legally established boundaries and constitutes a governmental unit. Two municipios have been created since 1970, Canóvanas and Florida, which were separated from Loíza and Barceloneta Municipios, respectively. Each municipio, with the exception of Florida, contains a ciudad or pueblo in which the seat of government is located. Florida municipio has its seat of government in the Florida Adentro barrio.

Municipio Subdivisions

Statistics for subdivisions of municipios are presented as follows:

1. Ciudades, pueblos, barrios. Barrios are the primary subdivisions of municipios. The barrios have legally established boundaries but do not constitute a governmental unit. "Ciudad" or "pueblo" is the name given to the barrio or group of barrios which identifies the municipio center of government. Ciudades, pueblos, and barrios essentially serve as election districts and as the basis for apportionment of the Commonwealth legislature. Many municipio subdivisions have been redefined since 1970 to reflect their legal boundaries, which were not used in many instances in 1970 census reports. There are two ciudades in Puerto Rico, Ponce and San Juan. These ciudades consist entirely of groups of barrios.

2. Subbarrios. The subbarrios serve as electoral and representational entities, further subdividing ciudades, some pueblos, and, in three municipios—Ponce, San Juan, and Salinas—barrios other than the ciudad or pueblo. There are subbarrios in 23 municipios.

Places

There are no incorporated places in Puerto Rico. Although ciudades (cities) and pueblos (towns) in Puerto Rico have legally established limits, they are not incorporated and are recognized for census purposes as municipio subdivisions rather than places.

In Puerto Rico, the census designated places are called "zonas urbanas" and "aldeas." To be recognized for the 1980 census, aldeas must have a minimum 1980 population of 1,000; however, zonas urbanas are recognized regardless of population size.

Zona urbana and aldea boundaries change with changes in the settlement pattern; a place which has the same name as in previous censuses does not necessarily have the same boundaries.

Zonas Urbanas—Zonas urbanas are composed of the municipio seat of government—i.e., a ciudad or pueblo (except in Florida Municipio)—and the adjacent built-up area. Zonas urbanas are delineated by the Puerto Rico Planning Board under authorization of the Puerto Rico Planning Act of 1975. Figures are published for all zonas urbanas regardless of the number of inhabitants. In 1970, zonas urbanas were incorrectly referred to as ciudades and pueblos, simultaneously disregarding the legal ciudad/pueblo boundaries. Zonas urbanas had not been recognized prior to the 1970 census.

Aldeas—Aldeas are closely settled population centers with no legally defined limits. The aldea boundaries were delineated by the Puerto Rico Planning Board following procedures established by the Census Bureau. To be recognized for publication in the 1980 census, aldeas must have a minimum 1980 population of 1,000 inhabitants.

Accuracy of the Data

Since 1980 population counts shown in this report were tabulated from the entries for persons on all questionnaires, these counts are not subject to sampling error. In any large-scale statistical operation such as a decennial census, human and mechanical errors occur. These errors are commonly referred to as nonsampling errors. Such errors include failure to enumerate every household or person in the population, not obtaining all required information from respondents, obtaining incorrect or inconsistent information, and recording information incorrectly. Errors can also occur during the field review of the enumerators' work, the clerical handling of the census questionnaires, or the electronic processing of the questionnaires.

In an attempt to reduce various types of nonsampling error in the 1980 census, a number of techniques were introduced on the basis of experience in previous censuses and in tests conducted prior to the census. These quality control and review measures were utilized throughout the data collection and processing phases of the census to minimize undercoverage of the population and housing units and to keep the errors at a minimum. As was done after the 1950, 1960, and 1970 censuses, there were programs after the 1980 census to measure various aspects of the quality achieved in the 1980 census. Reports on many aspects of the 1980 census evaluation program will be published as soon as the appropriate data are accumulated and analyzed.

A major component of the evaluation work is to ascertain, insofar as possible, the degree of completeness of the count of persons and housing units. The Census Bureau has estimated that the 1970 census did not count 2.5 percent of the population. For 1980, the Census Bureau's extensive evaluation program will encompass a number of different approaches to the task of estimating the coverage of the census. Although these studies have not been completed at the time of publication of this report, preliminary estimates indicate that the coverage in the 1980 census was improved.

Corrections to 1980 Census Publications Relevant to This Report

All population data shown in the tables of this report are consistent with the tabulated 1980 population counts published in 1980 Census of Population, Volume 1, Characteristics of the Population. That is, corrections to the population of counties, county subdivisions, and places published in correction notes in Volume 1, or made subsequently, are not reflected in the tables in this report.

The corrected 1980 land area and population density for inside and outside central cities of urbanized areas are presented at right.

For 12 UA's, errors occurred in the listings of component parts as shown in the respective State and Puerto Rico

Table 5. Population Inside and Outside Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas (SMSA's) by Urban and Rural Residence: 1980

[Portions of certain cities may be classified as rural, see appendix A for explanation. Place partly outside an SMSA is counted where larger part of population is located; population, however, is tabulated where located. For meaning of symbols, see Introduction]

Table 5. Population Inside and Outside Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas (SMSA's) by Urban and Rural Residence: 1980—Con.

[Portions of certain cities may be classified as rural, see appendix A for explanation. Place partly outside an SMSA is counted where larger part of population is located; population, however, is tabulated where located. For meaning of symbols, see Introduction]

NOTE: The 1970 population figures for the components of some urbanized areas may not add to the urbanized area or county totals because of changes in the boundaries of county subdivisions since 1970.

The Antioch-Pittsburg, Calif., and Santa Cruz, Calif., Urbanized Areas were delineated in 1974. 1970 counts for these areas are shown in the tables of this report but are not reflected in other 1980 census products.

The 1970 population figures for the central cities of the Los Angeles-Long Beach, Calif., and San Francisco-Oakland, Calif., Urbanized Areas do not add to the inside central cities total because of changes in the designation of central cities since 1970.

NOTE The 1970 population figures for the components of some urbanized areas may not add to the urbanized area or county totals because of changes in the boundaries of county subdivisions since 1970.

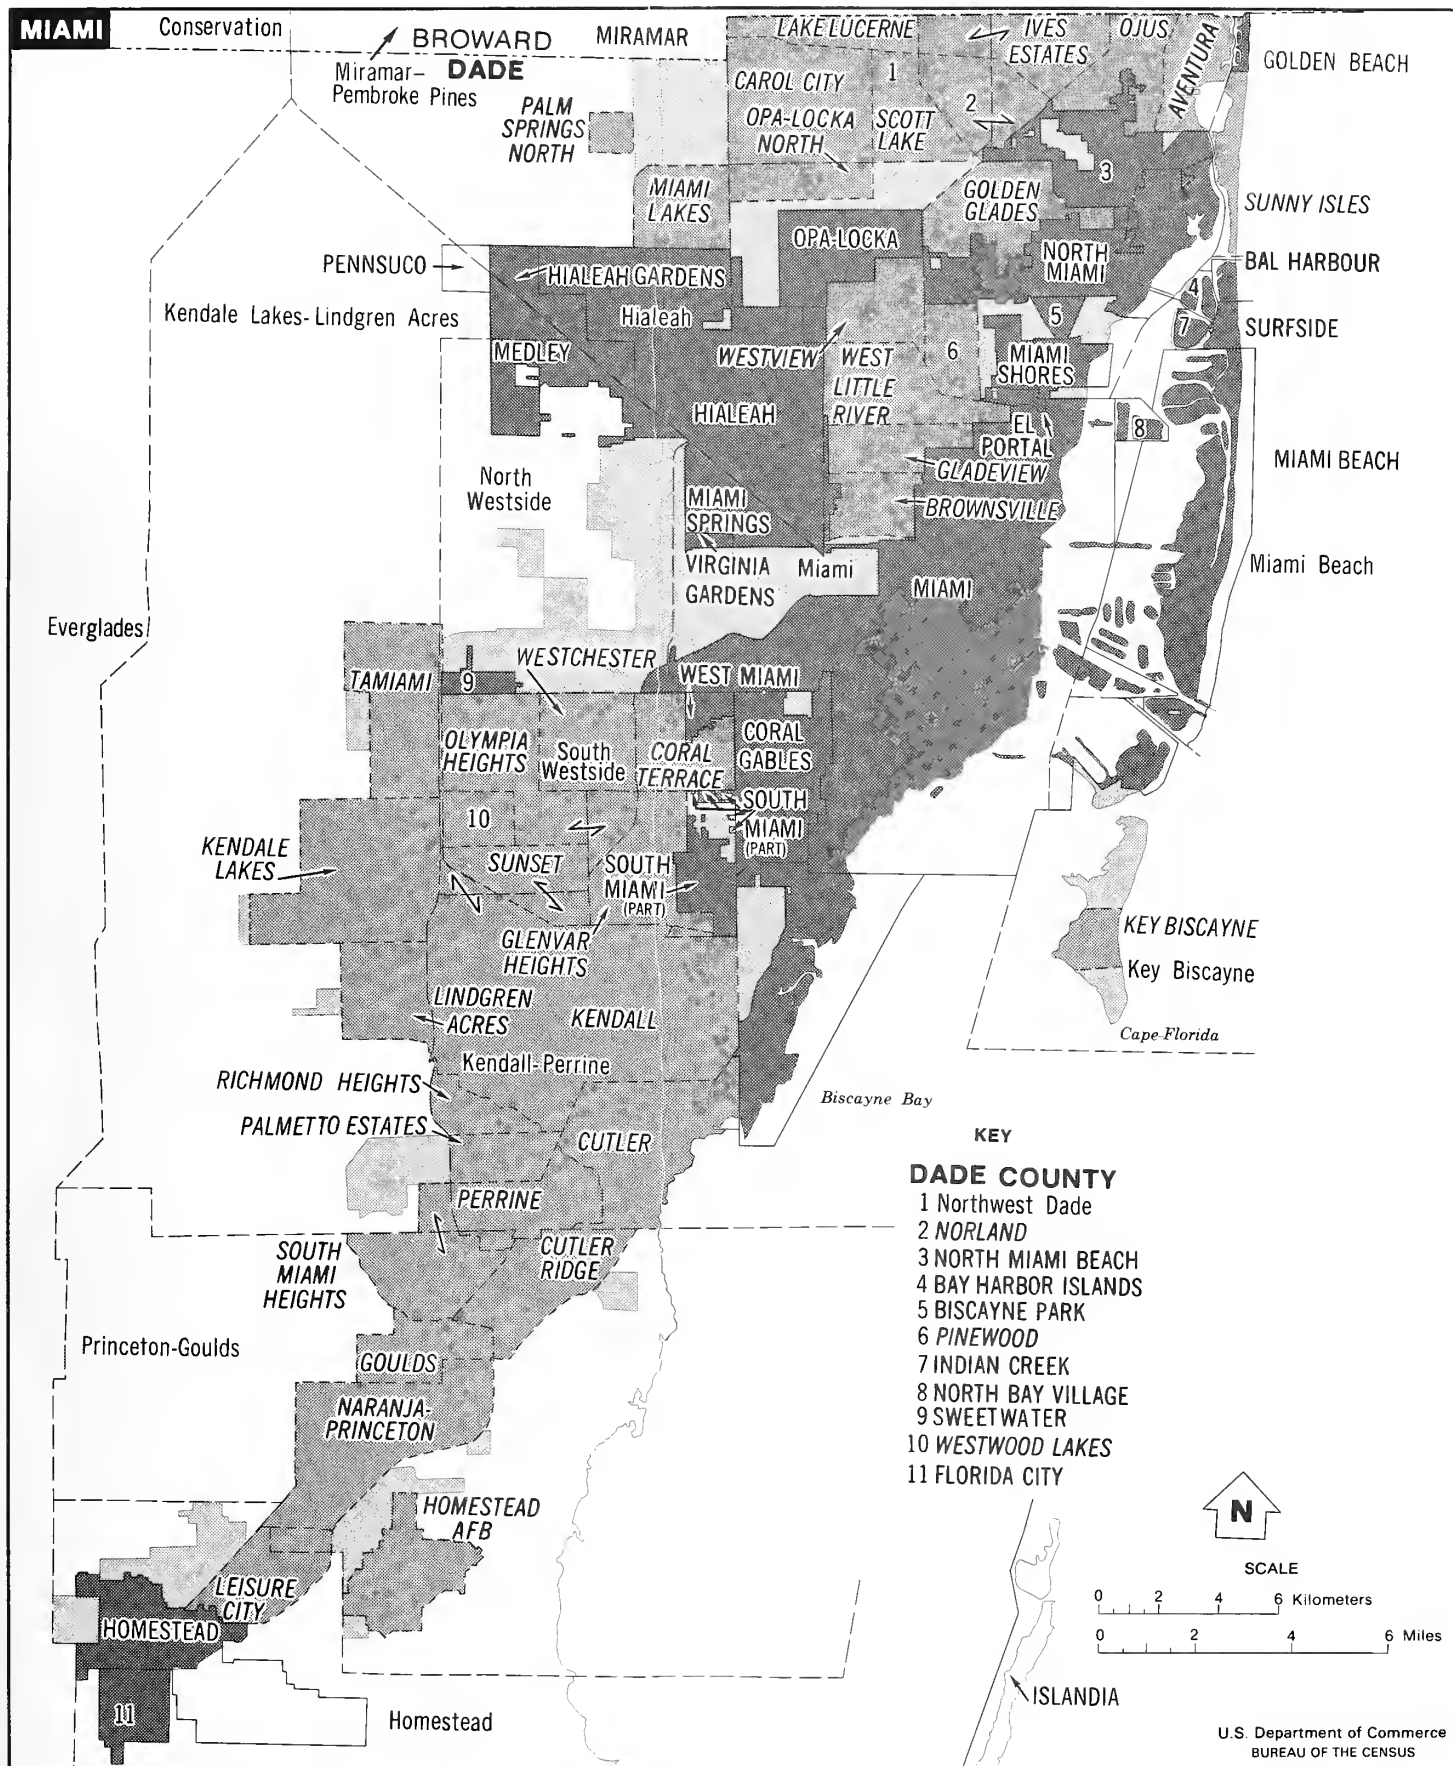

The Daytona Beach, Fla., Fort Myers, Fla., Lakeland, Fla., Melbourne-Cocoa, Fla., and Sarasota-Bradenton, Fla., Urbanized Areas were delineated in 1974. 1970 counts for these areas are shown in the tables of this report but are not reflected in other 1980 census products.

NOTE: In 1970 the Aurora-Elgin, Ill., Urbanized Area included part of what is contained in the separate 1980 urbanized areas of Aurora, Ill., and Elgin, Ill.

The 1970 population figures for the central cities of the Chicago, Ill.—Northwestern Indiana Urbanized Area do not add to the inside central city total because of changes in the designation of central cities since 1970.

The Alton, Ill., Urbanized Area was delineated in 1974. 1970 counts for this area are shown in the tables of this report, but are not reflected in other 1980 census products.

The 1970 population figures for the components of some urbanized areas may not add to the urbanized area or county totals because of changes in the boundaries of county subdivisions since 1970.

NOTE: The 1970 population figures for the components of some urbanized areas may not add to the urbanized area or county totals because of changes in the boundaries of county subdivisions since 1970.

The Clarksville, Tenn.—Ky., and Kingsport, Tenn.—Va., Urbanized Areas were delineated in 1974. 1970 counts for these areas are shown in the tables of this report but are not reflected in other 1980 census products.

NOTE: The Killeen, Tex., Urbanized Area was delineated in 1974. 1970 counts for this area are shown in the tables of this report but are not reflected in other 1980 census products.

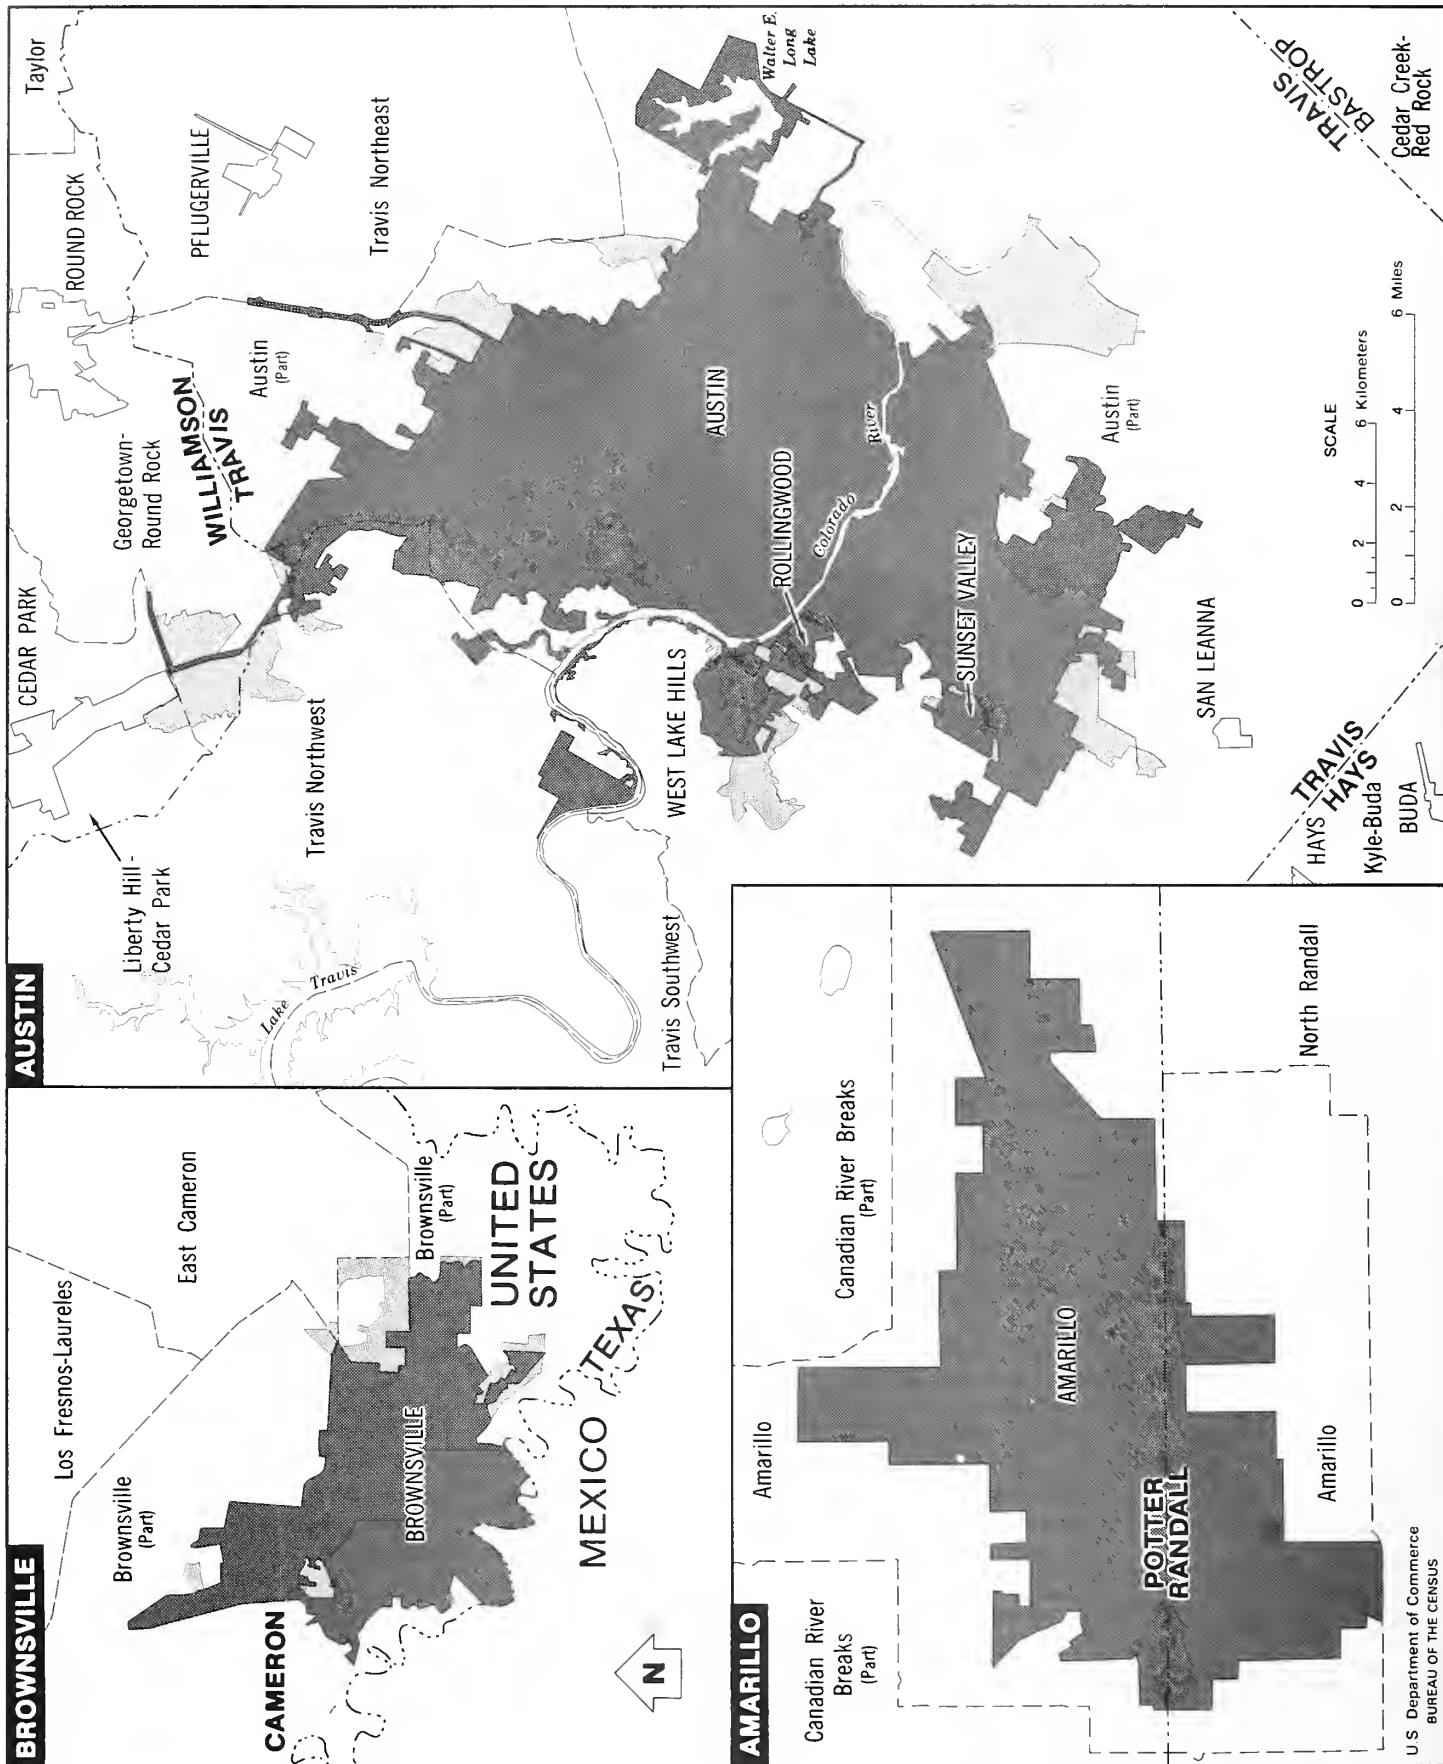

The 1980 Dallas—Fort Worth, Tex., Urbanized Area was shown as the separate Dallas, Tex., and Fort Worth, Tex., Urbanized Areas in 1970.

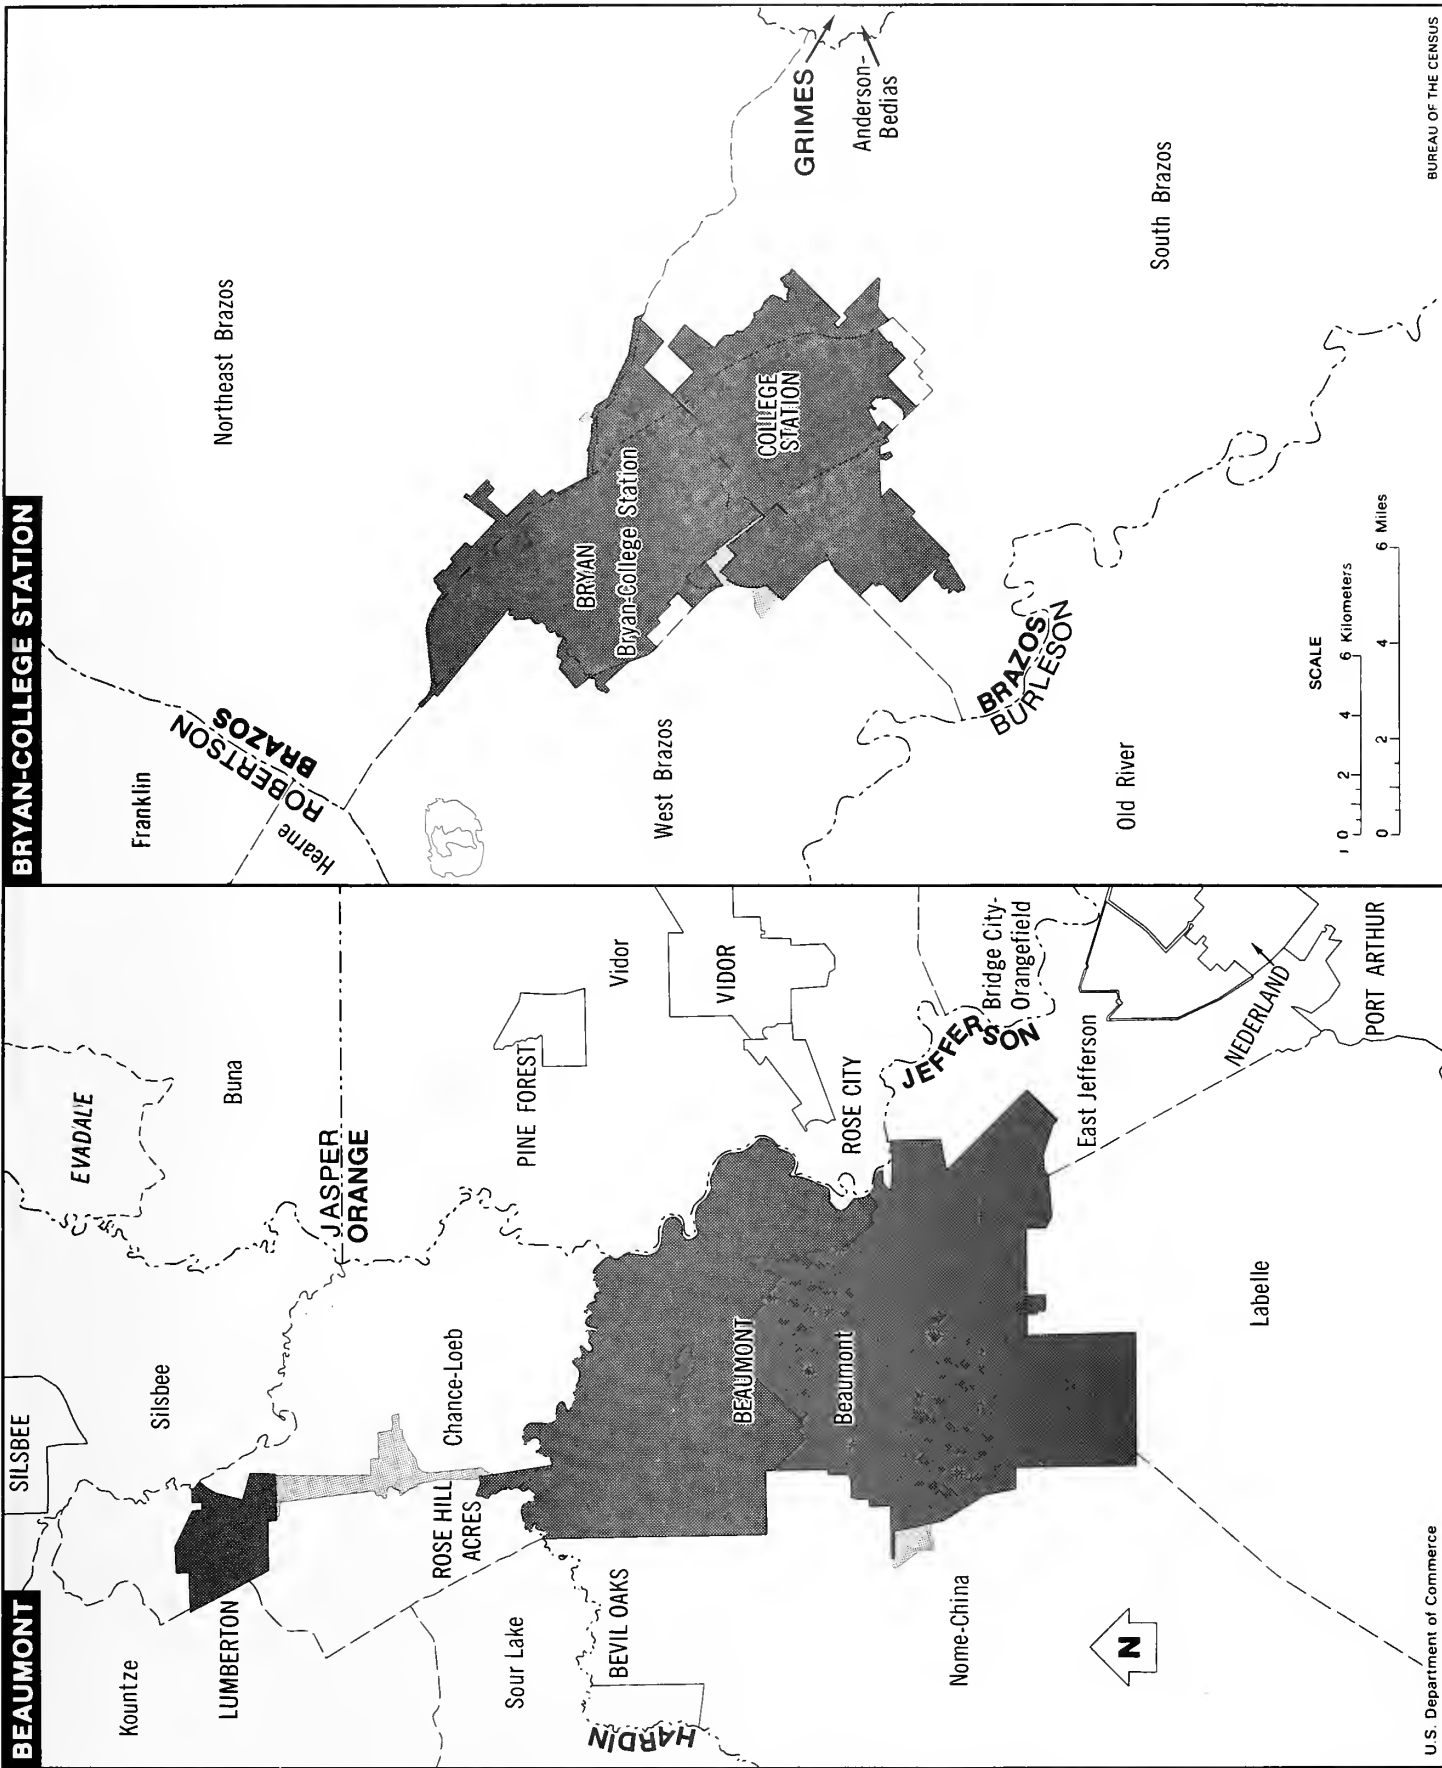

The 1970 population figures for the components of some urbanized areas may not add to the urbanized area or county totals because of changes in the boundaries of county subdivisions since 1970.
